Destroy "Sugar" House Near Village Of Centerburg

Pour Out Maple Syrup And Sugar Water

Centerburg, O., March 14.—Unknown persons broke into the "sugar" house of B. C. Kile, north of this village, some time Saturday night and destroyed a large amount of property belonging to Mr. Kile.

The house was filled with maple syrup and sugar water. The syrup and water were dumped out on the ground and the furnace used in boiling the sugar water was destroyed. It is claimed that a number of persons have been envious of Mr. Kile on account of the successful season he has had in syrup and sugar making and the affair of Saturday night was simply spite work on the part of some unknown parties.

PRIMARY LAW

Explained At Meeting Of Democratic Committee Saturday

O meeting of the Democratic county central committee was held at the city council chamber Saturday afternoon at which the primary election law was explained to those present. As several members of the committee were not in attendance, another meeting will be called at an early date, at which an effort will be made to have all the members. The law is quite complicated, and as this is the first year of its operation and under it the county ticket must be nominated and committeemen be selected, an effort will be made to have those connected with the party organization become familiar with its provisions.

BAD ACCIDENT

Came Near Resulting At Millwood Sand Plant

An accident happened at Millwood Monday morning that might easily have resulted seriously or fatally for several persons. About eight o'clock, the Millwood sand mill was set in operation and the usual amount of sand and small stones were deposited into the grinders, but in this sand was a large piece of iron, about seven inches square, which had accidentally been let drop in or was purposely put into the batch of gravel. When this large piece of metal struck the grinders, the machine broke, throwing pieces of iron and steel, both large and small all over the room, some of the pieces burying themselves into the beams and woodwork in the walls and ceiling. Fortunately, the employees of the mill, who work in that department, had just gone to some other part of the building at the time of the accident.

NEW CURE FOR CANCER

Juice of an Indian Plant Said To Heal the Dread Disease

(Rome Cor. Chicago News)

Prof. Rampoldi, of the University of Pavia, asserts that he has discovered a cure for cancer and other malignant skin diseases and growths. His remedy consists of local application with a special ointment made from the juice of a pod-bearing Indian plant, the native name of which is Javerri, resembling licorice. In bad cases, when the ointment is insufficient, subcutaneous injections are used. The discoverer says he has experimented successfully on hundreds of patients, but is unwilling to give the cure wide publicity until experiments on a large scale are completed. Discoveries such as are reported today by the correspondent of the Daily News in Rome are promptly investigated by Dr. E. F. Bashford, director of the central laboratory of the Imperial Cancer Research fund, and by several other cancer specialists in London.

"Light on this difficult subject is eagerly welcomed from any source," says Dr. Bashford in an address issued in his official capacity. "Only a few years ago there seemed to be little hope of acquiring new knowledge concerning cancer, but now systematic experimental study has enabled us to reproduce in mice all the features of spontaneous cancer and to protect healthy mice from all the consequences of cancer inoculation. So much achieved, we may hope that further research will yield results directly bearing on the nature and treatment of the disease."

Experimenting is going on daily in London, not only in the laboratories of the Imperial Cancer Research Fund, but in a number of others, notably those of the Middlesex Hospital, where a dozen trained investigators are constantly employed. In a single London laboratory 25,000 mice are under experiment. Dr. Bashford states that early surgical treatment is amply justified, and that thus far no substitute for it has been discovered. He adds that there is nothing in the theory that cancer is produced by the disordered development of embryonic cells, and cites as evidence of the correctness of his idea that in India, where cancer stain is common, the cause is easily traceable to the custom of carrying a small charcoal fire in an earthenware vessel close to the stain.

Sir William Church declares it has not been proved that cancer is associated with any particular diet, and he also affirms, as a result of experiments with mice, that it is impossible to ascribe a curative value to a combination of tryptin and amylopsin, the pancreatic ferments recommended by Dr. John Beard, the noted embryologist of the Edinburgh University. However, Dr. Beard claims to have cured cancer in mice by this means. The ramifications in the study of cancer are enormous, and the leaders in the cause of the disease and its consequent cure will be discovered.

BIG FIND OF AMBERGRIS

(Manchester N. H., Cor. New York Sun)

To pick up $30,000 worth of ambergris in the St. Lawrence River was the luck of a Manchester painter while he was on a fishing trip in Canada last fall. The man, who did not give his name, called at the State Laboratory in Concord yesterday and learned from State Chemist Howard the value of the substance.

With his brother the painter was out on the St. Lawrence one afternoon when they saw a strange gray object in the water. Thinking it was an animal they fired two shots at it and then hauled it into the boat. The substance weighed about 38 pounds.

Unaware of its value the finder took the ambergris to Boston and was offered a small sum for five or six pounds of it by a man who was interested in the find. The painter refused the offer and returned to Manchester, and so the matter rested for a while. He was finally advised to go to the State Laboratory, and did so yesterday.

OFF THE SAME PATTERN.

I've seen some mighty funny kinds
O' people in my day;
I've seen some men with knowin' minds
And some that's not that way.
I've watched them while they play the game,
And this is what I see:
They all stack up about the same,
They're just a heap like me!

It's not much matter who they are
Nor where they live nor why,
A drivin' mule or auto-car,
A foot or on the fly;
The rich, the poor and all the rest,
No matter what they be,
You look inside a feller's vest—
He's just a heap like me!

That's why I ain't no sort o' cause
For findin' fault with man,
Sence the whole jussle of them draws
To jest the selfsame plan.
The men that works, that sighs, that jokes,
And them that does all three,
They're all a pile o' right good folks
And just a heap like me!

In Readiness For The Laymen's Convention

Which Opens In This City Tuesday Evening

Mr. F. L. Fairchild To Be Toastmaster At Banquet

Everything is bright for a good convention. The program and attendance are assured to make a splendid impression on the people of the entire county. Every church in the city and every portion of the county will be represented by good delegations. Up to date there have been 225 registrations and there will likely be more reported this evening.

Another splendid addition has been made to the program. Mr. F. L. Fairchild, the much honored Christian Layman of Mt. Vernon, will preside at the banquet on Tuesday night. There are few men capable and better fitted to do this service than Mr. Fairchild, because of his personal interest in Missions. Mr. Fairchild is a member of the Finance committee of the National Board of Foreign Missions for the Congregational churches and has been in close touch with the Laymen's movement for a long time. The committee feels fortunate in securing Mr. Fairchild for this part of the program.

A final word relative to the registration. The committee will gladly receive any and all registrations up to the opening of the session. With this there is a possibility that the delegate who registers now may not get a plate at the banquet, but all will be able to hear the speaking, which after all is the most important part of the convention.

So that the word continues to be, come one, come all.
